

My journey in the real estate sector of Northern Nevada spans over two decades, deeply rooted in hands-on experiences rather than titles on a committee list. It all began with 19 enriching years working alongside a distinguished real estate/mining attorney. Sadly, with his passing, I chose to continue my dedication to the industry. I obtained my licensure as a landman and have been a licensed real estate agent since 2015. Over these years, I've delved into various sectors of our industry: from selling residential homes to handling commercial properties, from guiding investment property deals to facilitating vacant land sales.

This extensive background grants me a unique perspective, especially when scrutinizing our disclosures, with a keen interest in those related to vacant land. Disclosure integrity stands paramount in every transaction, and it's in this area that I see my next calling: refining our disclosure processes and forms to better serve our community.

Furthermore, as a staunch advocate for agents, I've always been a listening ear, valuing their feedback, understanding their grievances, and celebrating their suggestions. With this, I aspire to be their representative voice on our board of realtors. It's this pressing need for enhancement and advocacy that compels me to seek a seat on the board, aiming to bring forth my ideas and striving to make a transformative positive impact.
